Various agencies have come up with learning resources on financial literacy for children. The following are some of them.

Project Financial Literacy of RBI

The Reserve Bank of India has undertaken a project titled "Project Financial Literacy". The Objective of the project is to disseminate information regarding the central bank and general banking concepts to various target groups, including, school and college going children, women, rural and urban poor, defence personnel and senior citizens.

The project has been designed to be implemented in two modules, one module familiarises users with the role and functions of the Reserve Bank of India; and through the other module, users are introduced to banking concepts.

Raju and the forty thieves

Raju and the forty thieves is a pictorial mode booklet, released by RBI to create awareness among the public and customers, across all age groups with different education levels, including, inter alia, school children, young adults, semi-literates and senior citizens, etc., irrespective of their place of habitation. The booklet is a lucid pictorial depiction of the modus operandi observed in fraudulent financial incidents and aims to help learn from common mistakes and take steps to protect themselves and their hard earned money from fraudsters.

As the name suggests, 'Raju and the Forty Thieves' covers forty stories providing glimpses of fraudulent acts reported to the Bank, including the RBI Ombudsmen and the Consumer Education and Protection Department (CEPD) and provides simple tips about Do's and Don'ts as safeguards against such incidents. Raju is a typical gullible citizen, and, in these stories, he appears in different characters/roles, be it that of a senior citizen, a farmer or a happy-go-lucky individual, etc., to enable different stakeholders identify themselves with him in different walks of life.
